WELCOME FROM THE BOARD OF SAN FRANCISCO OPERA

Welcome to the summer season of San Francisco Opera's centennial year! We're thrilled to be celebrating our 100th birthday with a season of premieres and exciting new productions that showcase the extraordinary artistry of this Company. Opera is a uniquely compelling, entertaining, and emotionally thrilling art form, and our mission is to make every performance in the War Memorial Opera House an event that will touch you deeply and that you'll remember for years to come.

This summer we continue our centennial celebration with three very different operas exploring varied stories, in addition to our star-studded 100th Anniversary Concert on June 16. We present a fascinating new perspective on Puccini's Madame Butterfly, a journey to the fairy-tale world of Strauss' Die Frau ohne Schatten for the first time in 34 years, and a beautiful new work exploring the relationship between Frida Kahlo and Diego Rivera by Bay Area composer Gabriela Lena Frank.

Thank you for all you do to make this level of bold creativity and artistic excellence possible. If you are inspired to make a special centennial gift in support of this season, we encourage you to read more from our general director, Matthew Shilvock, on page 62. Your support is greatly needed and appreciated.

Thank you for being a part of something quite extraordinary, and we hope you enjoy this magnificent season!

Sincerely,

John A. Gunn

PS. FROM KEITH GEESLIN

This is my last season as President of the San Francisco Opera Association. I have been privileged to serve in this role for a decade, through times of great challenge and great artistic triumphs. Our spectacular Centennial Season requires an immense investment of time, talent, and resources, and your dedication and support make it possible. The Opera couldn't have weathered the pandemic, and certainly wouldn't be approaching the future so optimistically, without our steadfast community of devoted opera lovers. It's wonderful to be sharing the power of live musical experiences together again and to witness this community's passion for San Francisco Opera, a company which means so much to me. Thank you!

TERRENCE MCCARTHY

Once again, the unprecedented generosity of Cynthia and John Gunn has set the stage for a dazzling season at San Francisco Opera.

Since 2002, when John joined the Opera Board, the couple has underwritten numerous productions and provided exceptional support for many of the Company's innovative endeavors. In September 2008, the Gunns made a historic commitment—believed to be the largest gift ever made by individuals to an American opera company—to help fund the signature projects of then-General Director David Gockley, including new operas and productions, multimedia projects, and outreach programs, and they have proudly continued that support for General Director Matthew Shilvock. This season, the Gunns' inspired generosity is helping make possible four productions—Antony and Cleopatra, Eugene Onegin, La Traviata, and El último sueño de Frida y Diego. The Gunns invite everyone to give and join them as a member of San Francisco Opera's donor community. John comments, "Opera is a dynamic art form, and all of us play a role in keeping it a meaningful part of our social fabric. With you we can propel San Francisco Opera into its next 100 years of artistic history." John is the former chairman and CEO of Dodge & Cox Investment Managers. He joined the firm in 1972, the year he received his MBA from Stanford Business School and married Cynthia, who graduated from Stanford with an A.B. in political science in 1970. Early in her career, Cynthia was the editor and director of The Portable Stanford book series for ten years. She edited twenty-eight books by Stanford professors on a vast array of topics, including Economic Policy Beyond the Headlines by George Shultz and Ken Dam. In addition to their support of San Francisco Opera, the Gunns are active members of the community. John is a former trustee of Stanford University and is Chairman Emeritus of the Advisory Board for the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research. Cynthia currently serves as a trustee of the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, is a former overseer of Stanford's Hoover Institution, and has been a member of the advisory board of Family and Children Services and the board of the Lucile Packard Foundation for Children's Health. Opera lovers are grateful to Cynthia and John and applaud their commitment to keeping San Francisco Opera a leading-edge company

Barbara A. Wolfe (Production Sponsor, Die Frau ohne Schatten)

Barbara Wolfe has been a longtime opera fan and supporter of San Francisco Opera. Works of Mozart and Wagner, and operas in the classical Italian tradition are particular favorites. Most recently, Barbara supported the Company's new productions of La Traviata, Don Giovanni, and Tosca as well as the 2018 Ring cycle. With her late husband Tom, Barbara also sponsored Tannhäuser, Tristan und Isolde, The Magic Flute, Mefistofele, Norma, and Don Carlo. Barbara serves on the boards of the San Francisco Opera Association and San Francisco SPCA and was a longtime trustee at Mills College. She has supported educational programs and scholarships at several primary and secondary schools, graduate scholarship and fellowship programs at UCSF Foundation, and the Achievement Rewards for College Scientists program in Northern California. Barbara is also a supporter of the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, as well as numerous humanitarian and animal welfare organizations.

Jerome L. & Thao N. Dodson

(Production Sponsor, Die Frau ohne Schatten and Madame Butterfly)

"A fiery horse with the speed of light, a cloud of dust, and a hearty, 'Hi-Yo, Silver!'"

Those words, accompanied by the galloping excitement of Rossini's William Tell Overture, transfixed a young Jerry Dodson as he listened to The Lone Ranger on the family radio in Oak Park, Illinois. Just as Bugs Bunny's Rabbit of Seville had done for many, a lighthearted entertainment sparked a future operatic devotion.

That little boy grew up to attend Berkeley in the 60s, serve with the Foreign Office in Vietnam where he and Thao met, and attend Harvard Business School. Eventually, the couple married, settled in the Bay Area, and raised a family. In the 1980s, Jerry was a pioneer in the field of socially responsible investing with little interest in opera. But in 1992, when San Francisco Opera decided to celebrate Rossini's bicentennial with the rarely performed Guillaume Tell, Thao, already an opera lover, suggested to Jerry that they go.

Tell was praised for its striking Mansouri production, and the Dodsons began attending regularly. They became season ticket holders in 1999 and supporters, "in a small way," as Jerry puts it. A friendship with David Gockley, which endures to this day, led to a larger role as Company Sponsors. "I so admired what he did for the opera, but it was not very good for my pocketbook," Jerry laughs. Jerry also lends his financial expertise to the audit committee.

In 2016, Dodson considered the import of Gockley's departure. He met with Matthew Shilvock and joined the Board that year. "We hit it off right away!" Jerry says. He felt a similar affinity with Keith Geeslin, President of the San Francisco Opera Association. Eager to continue support, the Dodsons see the Centennial Season as a perfect time to revitalize and energize the Company within the San Francisco community. The initial fire ignited by William Tell continues to burn brightly.

KRISTEN LOKEN

Bob Ellis (Production Sponsor, El último sueño de Frida y Diego)

Bob has been a longtime supporter of contemporary opera since he became a member of the board of directors in 2001. He has supported all of John Adams' new productions for San Francisco Opera, beginning with the commission of Doctor Atomic in 2005 and continuing with Girls of the Golden West in 2017 and, and this past fall's Antony and Cleopatra. Along with Gabriela Lena Frank's El último sueño de Frida y Diego, other production sponsorships have included Douglas Moore's The Ballad of Baby Doe, Olivier Messiaen's Saint François d'Assise, and the 2011 premiere of Francesca Zambello's production of Wagner's Ring cycle. He has also served on the boards of Opera Parallèle, OPERA America, and Central City Opera.

Louise Gund (Production Sponsor, Die Frau ohne Schatten)

Louise Gund has a lifelong passion for the arts and is both a photographer and a theatrical producer. She has produced twelve Broadway plays and musicals, winning a Tony Award and Drama Desk Award for All the Way, and receiving three additional Tony Award nominations. A subscriber to San Francisco Opera since 2010, Louise has served on the Opera's board of directors since 2013. She has also served on the boards of the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, Cal Performances, Earthjustice, and the Berkeley Community Chorus and Orchestra. In addition to her major support of these organizations, she is an environmental activist and a staunch advocate on behalf of women's and children's issues. She was awarded the San Francisco Opera Spirit of the Opera Award in 2019 for devoted service to the Company, and was the inspiration behind the Opera's Producers Circle. Louise is passionate about enabling creativity to flourish, telling stories of meaning, and ensuring a vibrant future for the arts.

KRISTEN LOKEN

Burgess & Elizabeth Jamieson (Production Sponsor, Madame Butterfly)

Libby and Burgess Jamieson have made an extraordinary commitment to San Francisco Opera for more than three decades by supporting traditional classical productions. Their ongoing generosity has ensured an enduring place on the War Memorial Opera House stage for such applauded and memorable works as Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg, Il Trittico, La Bohème, Madame Butterfly, Turandot, Tosca, and La Traviata. They consider their sustained support of the arts, and especially of San Francisco Opera, as a means of preserving important cultural links for future generations. "Libby and I believe in the enduring love of great works appealing to seasoned and new audiences alike and which attract the next generation of opera lovers,"

Burgess says. "We are so pleased to play a role in bringing Madame Butterfly to the stage. We have a special fondness for supporting Puccini operas and look forward to this grand production, especially as it features Music Director Eun Sun Kim, who will conduct such outstanding artists as Karah Son, making her Company debut, and Michael Fabiano." With more than 45 years of experience in private and public investment management, Burgess is active on the San Francisco Opera's Board of Directors and its investment committee.

Koret Foundation (Production Sponsor, El último sueño de Frida y Diego)

San Francisco Opera is deeply grateful to Koret Foundation for its support of El último sueño de Frida y Diego. This funding is part of the Foundation's generous three-year grant in support of new works in this Centennial Season and beyond. "Koret is pleased to celebrate San Francisco Opera's Centennial Season with this exciting new work and looks forward to more opportunities to bring new voices and stories to the opera stage," says Jeffrey A. Farber, Koret Foundation CEO. Koret has been a longtime supporter of San Francisco Opera's transformational stage productions, as well as education and community programs. Most recently, Koret supported the reopening of the Opera House after the pandemic with a generous grant in support of Beethoven's Fidelio in 2021. "We are honored by Koret's longstanding partnership which helps us bring the best quality opera to the broadest audiences in ways that are reflective of and relevant to our community," says General Director Matthew Shilvock.

Bernard & Barbro Osher (Production Sponsor, Die Frau ohne Schatten)

A native of Maine, Bernard Osher became involved with San Francisco Opera as a subscriber over 50 years ago, shortly after moving here from New York. He and his wife, Barbro, a native of Sweden, have supported every aspect of the Company's work, from artist appearances to production facilities to audience building programs. Established in 1977, The Bernard Osher Foundation has funded virtually every major arts organization in the area, including youth programs. Higher education initiatives include scholarships for community college students in California and Maine and for baccalaureate students at universities in every state and the District of Columbia; Osher Lifelong Learning Institutes, serving adults on 125 campuses nationwide; and Osher Centers for Integrative Health at ten of the nation's leading medical schools and at the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, Sweden. Bernard is a longstanding member of the Opera's Board of Directors, serving on the Chairman's Council. Barbro is Honorary Consul General of Sweden for California and serves as Chairman of the Board of the Osher Foundation. Together they recently established the Osher Audience of the Future Fund, which gives San Francisco Opera an incredible resource to connect art and audiences together in new ways, ensuring that the Osher Theatre (War Memorial auditorium) remains a vibrant, energized, and full-to-the-rafters building in which to experience transformational opera.

Denise Littlefield Sobel (Production Sponsor, El último sueño de Frida y Diego)

Denise Littlefield Sobel is a philanthropist with a longstanding interest in the visual and supporting arts. She is at the forefront of several initiatives to promote diversity within the arts, and serves on several diversity committees for various nonprofits. Supporting DEI at San Francisco Opera has been a particular passion. When Matthew Shilvock first told Denise that SF Opera was commissioning El Sueño di Frida y Diego, its first opera in Spanish, she eagerly offered her support. In addition to supporting San Francisco Opera, she is an active supporter of numerous cultural institutions around the world, including several museums, such as The Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, SFMoMA, the National Museum of Women in the Arts, the Musée d'Orsay in Paris. She is Chair of the Board of Trustees at the Clark Art Institute in Williamstown, MA. A passionate advocate for diversity in dance and choreography, she supports a wide range of companies, including Alvin Ailey, ABT, Fall for Dance at NY City Center, Jacob's Pillow, the Joffrey, Joyce, Kyle Abraham's A.I.M., and, of course, the San Francisco Ballet. At the Paris Opera and Ballet, she continues to promote the expansion of a health center for dancers. In 2019, the French government presented Sobel with the country's highest civilian honor, naming her a Chevalier of the Légion d'honneur, in recognition of her extraordinary contributions to French culture. In 2013, Sobel created the Tikkun Olam Foundation, Inc. where she serves as President, focusing on women's health, gender justice, and reproductive rights. A native of San Francisco and a resident of New York City, Sobel is active in several charities in both cities and has served on other nonprofit boards, including the American Red Cross of Greater New York, which honored her with the 2022 Humanitarian Award, Congregation Rodeph Sholom, and Chicago's Auditorium Theatre, where she has been honored for her ongoing support of dance programs and historic preservation. The youngest child of Edmund Wattis Littlefield and Jeannik Méquet Littlefield, she continues her parents' wonderful legacy of support of San Francisco Opera through her own philanthropy, and management of the Edmund W. and Jeannik Méquet Littlefield Endowment Fund, which provides a permanent and unrestricted source of income for the Company. In 2021, she and her brother, Ed Littlefield, Jr., received the Crescendo Award, bestowed by the San Francisco Opera Guild, for their family's half-century support of San Francisco Opera.

Jan Shrem & Maria Manetti Shrem

Maria Manetti Shrem has enjoyed extraordinary success in business, in particular in the fashion industry, where she played a major role in establishing Gucci as a truly global force. Today, her focus is philanthropy, and she has made no secret of the fact that she and her husband, Jan Shrem, aim to give away the bulk of their wealth in their lifetimes.

“I want to give with my warm hands, not after passing,” Manetti Shrem says. “And we want to inspire other wealthy people to give now. For me, the art of living is the art of giving.” Since the mid-1990s, Manetti Shrem has contributed generously in the San Francisco Bay Area, New York, the U.K., and Italy, where she was born, in Florence.

Maria and Jan have been San Francisco Opera supporters since 1985 and have provided significant support for opera artists through the establishment of four major funds. Through the Great Interpreters of Italian Opera Fund, they support many classic works of the Italian repertoire, including this season’s La Traviata and Madame Butterfly. Through the Conductors Fund, appearances of renowned conductors are assured at San Francisco Opera, this season for Eugene Onegin and Orpheus and Eurydice. Through the Emerging Stars Fund, Jan and Maria help bring some of opera’s most exciting rising talents to the stage. And finally, the Luminaries Concert Fund enables

San Francisco Opera to bring legendary artists to the stage for special events and performances.

Maria counts sopranos Renée Fleming and Nadine Sierra, tenor Michael Fabiano, and baritone Lucas Meachem as personal friends and was especially close to Luciano Pavarotti, treating the legendary tenor as family whenever he performed in San Francisco. Beyond their support for education, fine arts, and music, the Manetti Shrems have been generously supporting causes in medical research and science, focusing on communities of need, particularly the elderly and children. A few years ago, the president of Italy bestowed upon Maria Manetti Shrem the title of Grand Officer of the Order of the Star of Italy for her consistent support of cultural collaboration between Italy and the U.S. In June 2022, the Mayor of San Francisco, London Breed, along with the City and the County, proclaimed “June 22 Manetti Shrem Day for Philanthropy.”

In December 2022, she received The Spirit of the Opera award for her devotion to San Francisco Opera, her high level of commitment to advancing the success of the Company and her ongoing support of the art form. She is the 2023 UC Davis Medal recipient for her profound arts legacy and passion for creating opportunities for exploration and education.

El Círculo de Frida y Diego

San Francisco Opera is honored to recognize donors for their support of Gabriela Lena Frank and Nilo Cruz's El último sueño de Frida y Diego and their participation in this special giving circle—El Círculo de Frida y Diego. From the names of the levels, to the gift amounts and benefits, each level was created to reflect an important part of the opera and inspire a deeper connection to the work. This community-based effort welcomes new supporters who, together, are helping to bring this work to life. There is still time to join El Círculo by calling (415) 565-3212. Donors will be added to our digital recognition and will receive a special commemorative pin! Please see page 24 for more details. This listing reflects gifts received through May 10, 2023.

SCAN TO DONATE

Help make the Centennial a triumphant success!

BY GENERAL DIRECTOR MATTHEW SHILVOCK

Incredible passion fuels the very business model of opera. From the Renaissance to now, this most gloriously all-encompassing art form has thrived because of the passionate generosity of patrons, be they monarchs, governments, or, in the case of the United States, individuals like YOU! The fusion of singing, music, and theater requires a significant financial investment, but the impact is transformational, creating experiences that linger in our hearts and souls for decades.

Opera economics are exceptionally fragile and have become ever more so over the decades. The percentage of our costs covered by sales has diminished from the 1960s, to a point where only 16% of our costs are covered by tickets. For every $100 you spend on a ticket, we have to bring in an additional $500 from other sources. Government support is only 0.5% of our budget and corporate support has, with a few loyal exceptions, largely disappeared over the last decade. As another form of donor support, around 15% of our budget comes from our endowment.

- As indicated above, our annual fund has remained ostensibly flat for over 15 years, while costs have escalated by around 3% a year.
- The 20% decline of subscription during the pandemic caused a related drop in donors.
- To attract new audiences, we need new products. Our future demands that we invest in new ways of engaging with the public as we have done this Centennial Season. Such experimentation adds to the philanthropic need but is critical to our survival.

The possibilities of this season are thrilling! We are bringing to life two new operas, three new productions, two new co-productions, a traveling Bohème in a shipping container, bold new ticket programs, a full season of livestreams, and so much more. Eun Sun Kim is taking the musical values of the Company to an extraordinary level. And we are seeing an unprecedented number of new ticket buyers coming through the doors.

We have an urgent need for additional philanthropy to make possible this bold season. We still have $5M of new funds to raise before July 31 to ensure that this Centennial Season be both an artistic and a financial triumph. Your help can get us there.

I humbly ask you to reach as deeply as you are able to in support of this extraordinary Centennial Season. No gift is too small or large. If you have already given, please consider an additional gift in support of the Centennial. If you have not yet given, there has never been a better chance to become a part of this company. The Ann and Gordon Getty Foundation for the Arts is generously matching new and increased gifts made before July 31 such that your gift will be tripled in impact. We also have some very exciting new giving programs like El Círculo de Frida y Diego (see page 24).

The success of this season, artistically and financially, will do much to set the foundation for the future of the Company. You have held the legacy of San Francisco Opera in your hearts and hands for the last hundred years. Please help us carry forward that legacy by making an extraordinary gift in support of the Centennial and affirming the vital importance of this moment in our storied history.

REVENUE

The very existence of this company is in the hands of you. Individual donors give with spectacular generosity to ensure our survival, allowing us to sustain the 1,000 or so employees who come through the Company each year. Your support allows us to protect the quality of our art, but the trends are concerning.

Thank you for believing in the future of San Francisco Opera. To donate, please visit sfopera.com/give or call (415) 565-3212.

El Círculo de Frida y Diego

Join a special new giving circle, available exclusively for new and increased gifts to support Gabriela Lena Frank and Nilo Cruz's El último sueño de Frida y Diego, presented by San Francisco Opera in June 2023.

GIFT LEVELS AND BENEFITS

To join the circle with your philanthropic support, visit sfopera.com/elcirculo or call (415) 551-3212.

Día de los Muertos (Day of the Dead), November 2, 1957. The year of Diego Rivera's death and three years after the death of his wife, painter Frida Kahlo.

Diego Rivera visits a cemetery where villagers have gathered for the annual ritual to honor departed loved ones and summon them to return from the underworld. A few villagers recognize the famous painter and dare to approach. They joke affectionately and then explain their ritual, emphasizing that it is faith in your soul that brings back the dead. As the villagers depart, Diego calls out to Frida, revealing his fears and loneliness and imploring her to return to him. Diego's reverie is interrupted by an old woman selling flowers. After Diego leaves, the old woman reveals herself as La Catrina, Keeper of the Dead.

In Mictlán, the Aztec underworld, Catrina summons Frida to arise and return to visit Diego. Frida defies the powerful Catrina, refusing to believe that Diego has called her. Catrina insists that Frida must return to accompany her dying husband on his journey to the underworld.

Frida, having found release in death from both her mercurial relationship and agonizing physical pain, questions why she would return to the world of the living. She prefers her refuge of darkness and silence. Other departed souls playfully implore Frida to return to Diego, but Frida refuses.

Catrina arrives to gather those who have been summoned, chasing off a young man trying to sneak back to the living world after he failed to return to the underworld in time the previous year.

Frida notices a young actor, Leonardo, practicing his impersonation of Greta Garbo. He wants to go back as Garbo, to please a fan of the actress who waits every year hoping for a visit from his long unseen (and assumed departed) idol.

A fellow artistic spirit, Leonardo encourages Frida to return for herself, her art, and the chance to paint a new Frida without pain or anguish. He dresses her in her trademark clothes, adorning her hair with ribbons and flowers. Catrina returns, calling out the names of those who have been summoned, and readies them for their return. She calls on Frida, who continues to protest. Catrina notices Leonardo in his Garbo costume and forbids his ruse as Greta Garbo has not yet died. Frida pleads for him, and Catrina relents.

At the last minute, Frida decides she will return to the world of the living. Catrina allows it but not before laying out the rules: The visit is for 24 hours only, and there is to be no touching the living—"A caress can cost you the memory of pain." As Diego continues to summon Frida from above, she and the other departed souls begin their return.

10. Levitation

In the world of the living, Diego is bereft of inspiration. He is unable to paint, unable to embrace his mortality and tormented by the absence of Frida when she suddenly appears to him. Diego's pleas have been answered and Frida is again in the world of the living.

Frida and Diego find themselves together in Alameda Park, strolling among living and departed souls together. Frida is overjoyed to be without pain and part of the vibrant life around her. Diego pleads for an embrace which Frida cannot give.

A passing beggarwoman is a reminder of the darker world around them. Diego feels the presence of death and is reminded of his own mortality as the two artists mourn the state of the city and its broken, beautiful past.

Frida finds Leonardo and learns that he has visited Greta Garbo's admirer, fulfilling the man's fantasy of meeting the movie star and providing the departed actor with a successful performance.

Diego leads Frida back to her beloved home, Casa Azul, where she must confront the realities of her past life and the limitations of her return. Leonardo encourages Frida to paint. Diego begs her to embrace him, and Catrina reminds Frida that her time is limited and she must not touch the living. Frida tries to paint but, no longer having a reflection in the physical world, she cannot summon her primary subject—her own image. Diego comforts Frida, offers assistance, and asks for forgiveness for their difficult past. Suddenly she embraces him and is racked by the returning pain of her living existence. Diego lovingly encourages her to paint as a distraction. Images of herself that Frida created throughout her life appear, beckoning her into a world of art. Diego and Frida are surrounded by a timeless world of blue.

As dawn breaks, Frida and Diego cling to their hope of staying together, but it is time for Frida to return to the underworld. As Leonardo bids a final farewell to the world of the living, Catrina gathers the departed souls for their return. She is angry to notice Frida's absence but keeps her procession moving.

Alone, Frida and Diego recognize that they cannot live forever in a dream world of art. With a final hope of being with Frida forever, Diego pleads for the gods of the underworld to call him back with her. Catrina appears and Diego tells her his time has come. Catrina reminds him only Mictlantecutli, God of the underworld, can decide his time. Frida begs her to help, and Diego's journey begins. As they approach the underworld, Catrina calls out to Mictlantecutli who appears and brings Diego into the world of the departed.

As the departed souls welcome them, Frida and Diego whisper to one another, united for eternity in the underworld.

Dos de noviembre de 1957, Día de los Muertos, año del fallecimiento de Diego Rivera, tres años después de la muerte de su esposa, la pintora Frida Kahlo.

Diego Rivera visita un cementerio en donde los lugareños se reúnen para el ritual anual de honrar a los espíritus de sus seres queridos y convocarlos a que regresen del inframundo. Algunos reconocen al famoso pintor y se atreven a acercarse a él. Con afecto bromean sobre el ritual mortuorio, enfatizando que es la fe del alma la que invita al retorno de los difuntos.

Cuando los aldeanos se van, Diego llama a Frida y le revela sus miedos y su soledad, rogándole que regrese a él. El ensueño de Diego es interrumpido por una anciana que se aproxima a venderle flores. Después de que Diego se ha ido, la anciana revela su verdadera identidad: es Catrina, la Guardiana de los Muertos.

En Mictlán, el inframundo azteca, Catrina ordena a Frida a que regrese a visitar a Diego. Pero ella desafía a la poderosa Catrina, negándose a creer que Diego la ha llamado. Catrina insiste en que Frida debe regresar a acompañar a su esposo moribundo en su viaje al inframundo.

Frida, quien en la muerte ha podido liberarse de su volátil relación y su agonizante dolor, se pregunta por qué tiene que regresar al mundo de los vivos. Ella prefiere su refugio en la oscuridad y el silencio. Otros difuntos le suplican juguetonamente que regrese a visitar a Diego. Frida se niega a hacerlo.

Catrina aparece para reunir a todos aquellos que han sido convocados y expulsa a un joven que trata de escabullirse al mundo de los vivos, después de que el año anterior falló en regresar a tiempo al inframundo.

Frida observa a Leonardo, un joven actor, que está practicando su personificación de Greta Garbo. Él desea regresar, haciéndose pasar por la actriz, a fin de complacer a un admirador que espera la visita de su ídolo, a quien no ha visto en mucho tiempo.

Leonardo, quien posee un espíritu artístico afín a la pintora, motiva a Frida a que regrese por sí misma, por su arte y por la posibilidad de pintar a una nueva Frida, desprovista de dolor y angustia. Él la viste con su guardarropa característico y adorna su pelo con moños y flores.

Catrina regresa y nombra a todos aquellos que han sido convocados, preparándolos para su salida. Ella llama nuevamente a Frida, quien continúa negándose a partir. Catrina ve a Leonardo con su disfraz de Garbo y le prohíbe continuar con su ardid ya que Greta Garbo aún no ha fallecido. Frida implora por él y Catrina cede.

En el último minuto, Frida decide regresar al mundo de los vivos. Catrina lo autoriza, no sin antes dictarle las reglas que debe seguir: su estancia será solamente por 24 horas y habrá de abstenerse de tocar a los vivos: “Una caricia te puede costar la memoria de tu dolor”. Mientras Diego continúa evocando a Frida, ella y los demás difuntos emprenden su camino de regreso.

Diego se siente desprovisto de inspiración. Incapaz de pintar, no acepta su mortalidad, atormentado por la ausencia de Frida. De repente ella aparece ante él. Sus súplicas han sido escuchadas y Frida ha regresado al mundo de los vivos.

Frida y Diego aparecen en el Parque de la Alameda, caminando hombro a hombro, en compañía de seres vivos y almas difuntas. Frida está encantada al no sentir dolor y saberse parte de la vibrante vida que la rodea. Diego le ruega por un abrazo que Frida no puede darle.

Una mendiga que se aproxima les hace recordar un mundo más oscuro a su alrededor. Diego siente la presencia de la muerte, aludiendo la suya propia, al tiempo que los dos artistas lamentan las condiciones de la ciudad y su roto y bello pasado.

Frida encuentra a Leonardo, quien le dice que ha ido a visitar al admirador de Greta Garbo. Le ha concedido así su deseo de ver a su estrella de cine, dándole asimismo al difunto actor la oportunidad de vanagloriarse de una actuación exitosa.

Diego acompaña a Frida a la Casa Azul, su hogar querido, donde ella debe enfrentarse a la realidad de su pasado y a las limitaciones de su regreso. Leonardo anima a Frida a pintar. Diego le implora que lo abrace. Catrina le recuerda que su tiempo es limitado y no debe tocar a un ser viviente.

Frida intenta pintar, pero al no tener un reflejo en el mundo físico, no puede acudir a su objeto primario, su propia imagen. Diego la consuela, le ofrece ayuda y le pide perdón por su pasado tempestuoso. Súbitamente ella lo abraza y de inmediato el dolor de su mortal existencia la retuerce. Diego la alienta amorosamente a que pinte para distraerse. Frida observa las imágenes de sí misma que creó durante su vida, atrayéndola nuevamente a su arte. Diego y Frida se ven rodeados de un mundo azul atemporal.

Al despuntar el alba, Frida y Diego se aferran a la esperanza de seguir juntos, pero ha llegado la hora en que Frida tiene que regresar al inframundo. Mientras que Leonardo se despide del mundo de los vivos, Catrina comienza a reunir a las almas difuntas para su regreso. Enojada, Catrina percibe la ausencia de Frida, pero mantiene a la procesión en movimiento.

Solos, Frida y Diego se dan cuenta de la imposibilidad de vivir eternamente en su anhelado mundo de arte. Confiado en poder estar con Frida para siempre, Diego suplica a los dioses del inframundo que lo lleven con ella. Catrina aparece y Diego le dice que su hora ha llegado. Pero ella le recuerda que sólo Mictlantecuhtli, el Dios del Inframundo, es quien puede determinar ese momento.

Frida le implora a Catrina que lo ayude y el viaje de Diego comienza. Mientras se acercan al inframundo, Catrina llama a Mictlantecuhtli, quien aparece y se lleva a Diego al mundo de la muerte. Las almas difuntas les dan la bienvenida. Frida y Diego susurran sus nombres al oído, unidos por siempre en el más allá.

Connection Through Music and Art

BY LORENA MAZA

Frida and Diego created some of the most fascinating works of art in the 20th century. Frida Kahlo is one of very few artists whose work is immediately recognizable. Diego is the father of Mexican Muralism, the first artistic movement the Americas gave to the world. They were extraordinary artists with extraordinary lives and a unique love story. They transcend in every aspect of their lives. They were unique, provocative, intense, and amazing artists. Frida and Diego created a whole universe for themselves with their art, their passions, their houses, their love affairs, their art collections, the way they dressed, their social and political ideals, and their love for each other. Everything in their lives was connected and truly represented who they were. Art and life were the same. They shared everything important to them, especially their love for Mexico and its indigenous past, popular art, and, of course, their social and political ideals. They both painted Mexico's visual identity at its core. They helped us remember who we were and created a vision of how we wanted to be. It all came together in a multidimensional, multicultural universe that translated into a unique, personal, breathtaking art. They live on because of that uniqueness. Their universe is profoundly appealing because we can recognize ourselves in their passion, their pain, and the beauty of what they created.

These two characters have many dimensions; they exist as icons, as artists, as a couple, and as individual human beings. But they also belong to the imagination. The Last Dream of Frida and Diego allows us to imagine them again, recreate part of that universe, and witness a last encounter. This story has all the ingredients for an opera. Love, betrayal, pain, art, death, politics, sex, gender, diversity, and disability. It's as multilayered and multi-dimensional as its characters. It's a journey from the underworld and back; it's about passion for art and finding identity through art; about forgiveness and surrender. Finally, this story is also a dream, Diego's and Frida's dream of a last encounter with each other and with art. It happens on Día de Muertos, and Diego's last day on earth. The context is enormous and couldn't be more dramatic. Our challenge in this production was to create a unique universe that conveys the main symbols, gestures, and imagery of their iconography and their lives, in a very symbolic and depurated style, avoiding textual reproductions and the usual interpretation of Mexican folklore cliché or massive media exploitation of Frida's and Diego's life and image. We wanted to create our own vision of this particular and beautiful story.

The whole creative team of The Last Dream of Frida and Diego represents eight or nine different cultures, nationalities, and artistic sensibilities. I'm a Mexican stage director staging the opera of a Peruvian American composer with a Cuban American librettist, depicting two cultural icons that represent so many different communities. Well, this is what the world looks like now. Not only do we live in a globalized world, but we live in a multicultural one; all the American continent is a melting pot. We are a mixture of races and cultures, migrations and indigenous people, from Alaska to Patagonia. We are all Mestizos in a sense.

I believe projects like this one can help advance diversity and inclusion, helping us understand our different cultures and shared humanity. We can genuinely connect through music and art, discovering and celebrating our differences with respect, and recognizing ourselves in others. We must embrace diversity and inclusion to live peacefully and prosper. I hope this opera can help bring communities closer and welcome new audiences to the opera. I hope that Mexicans and Americans feel proud of such a rich and distinctive heritage that belongs to all of us. 🌟

Conexión a través Música y Arte

BY LORENA MAZA

Frida y Diego son los íconos artísticos más destacados de la cultura mexicana. Ellos crearon algunas de las obras de arte más fascinantes del siglo XX. Frida Kahlo es una de las pocas artistas cuyo trabajo es inmediatamente reconocible. Diego es uno de los padres del Muralismo Mexicano, el primer movimiento artístico que América dio al mundo. Fueron artistas extraordinarios con vidas extraordinarias y una historia de amor única. Frida y Diego crearon todo un universo para ellos: con su arte, sus pasiones, sus casas, sus amores, sus colecciones, su forma de vestir, sus ideales sociales y políticos y el amor que sentían el uno por el otro. Cada aspecto de sus vidas estaba conectado y realmente representaba quiénes eran. El arte y la vida eran lo mismo. Compartieron todo lo importante para ellos, su amor por México y su pasado indígena, el arte popular, el activismo político y social y los gustos estéticos. Ambos pintaron la identidad visual mexicana en su esencia, nos ayudaron a recordar quiénes éramos y crearon una visión de cómo queríamos ser. Todo se unió en un universo único, multidimensional y multicultural que se tradujo en un arte personal, intenso, impresionante y provocador. Su arte es tan personal y único que se vuelve universal. Es una hermosa paradoja. Ellos viven debido a esa singularidad. Su universo es profundamente seductor porque podemos reconocernos en la pasión, el dolor y la belleza de lo que crearon.

Estos dos personajes existen como íconos, como artistas, como pareja y como seres humanos individuales. Pero también pertenecen a la imaginación. El último sueño de Frida y Diego nos permite volver a imaginarlos, recrear parte de ese universo y ser testigos de un último encuentro. Ésta es una historia perfecta para una ópera. Hay amor, dolor, arte, muerte, pasión, política, sexo, género, diversidad y discapacidad. Tiene muchas capas y es multidimensional, como sus personajes, pero al final, es una historia de amor. Habla del amor más allá de la vida, de un viaje de ida y vuelta al inframundo; se trata de la pasión por el arte y de encontrar la propia identidad a través del arte, también del perdón y la entrega. Esta historia es también un sueño, el sueño que Diego y Frida tienen de un último encuentro entre ellos y el arte. Sucede en el Día de Muertos, y el último día de Diego en la tierra. El contexto es enorme y no podría ser más dramático. Nuestro reto en esta producción es crear un universo único que transmita los principales símbolos, gestos e imágenes de su iconografía y de sus vidas, en un estilo muy simbólico y depurado, evitando reproducciones textuales y la habitual interpretación del cliché del folklore mexicano o la explotación masiva de los medios de la vida e imagen de Frida y Diego. Queríamos crear nuestra propia visión de esta particular y hermosa historia.

Todo el equipo creativo de El último sueño de Frida y Diego representa ocho o nueve culturas, nacionalidades y sensibilidades artísticas diferentes. Yo soy una directora de escena mexicana, que dirige la ópera de una compositora peruana estadounidense con el texto de un libretista cubano estadounidense, contando la historia dos íconos culturales que representan a tantas comunidades diferentes. Pues así es como se ve el mundo ahora. No solo vivimos en un mundo globalizado, sino que vivimos en uno multicultural; todo el Continente Americano es un crisol. Somos una mezcla de razas y culturas, migraciones e indígenas, desde Alaska hasta la Patagonia. Todos somos mestizos en cierto sentido.

Creo que proyectos como este pueden ayudar a promover la diversidad y la inclusión, ayudándonos a comprender nuestras diferentes culturas y nuestra humanidad compartida. Podemos conectarnos genuinamente a través del arte, descubriendo y celebrando nuestras diferencias con respeto y reconociéndonos en los demás. Debemos abrazar la diversidad y la inclusión para vivir en paz y prosperar. Espero que esta ópera pueda ayudar a acercar a las comunidades y dar la bienvenida a nuevas audiencias a la ópera. Espero que los mexicanos y los estadounidenses nos sintamos orgullosos de tan rica y distintiva herencia que nos pertenece a todos. 🌱

Una alegoría para Frida y Diego

AN ALLEGORY FOR FRIDA AND DIEGO

POR / BY JUAN RAFAEL CORONEL RIVERA

Su último sueño siempre fue el primero que tuvieron: estar juntos. Diego vivió diez años en Europa, estuvo dos veces en la Unión Soviética, permaneció casi tres años en los Estados Unidos e hizo una treintena de viajes más. Frida solamente conoció parte de la Unión Americana y París y no le gustaron ni los estadounidenses ni los galos. Era andariega, pero se interesaba en los pueblos, en los mercados o ir por un antojito a Pátzcuaro durante el día de los muertos. Diego quería pintar en cada nuevo edificio de los Rockefeller, los Ford, los Chrysler. Fue el segundo pintor en tener una retrospectiva en el Museo de Arte Moderno de Nueva York, después de Matisse. En la actualidad el fideicomiso que fundó Diego lo mantiene Frida con las regalías de su enorme popularidad.

Cuando se conocen Diego y Frida ella vivía en Coyoacán, un pueblo alejado de la ciudad de México. La primera vez que abandona su villa es para ir a San Francisco, este es su viaje iniciático. Llegan a esta ciudad el 13 de noviembre de 1930; los Estados Unidos era un país inmerso en la Gran Depresión que los recibe con un sentimiento interesante: esperanza. Los murales de Diego muchas veces son escenas operísticas donde los indígenas son el sol, ese gran actor que da vida a todo. Los autorretratos de Frida algunas veces están pintados rodeados por telones, donde ella se encuentra en el proscenio y su vestido siempre cuelga ahí: un fantasma tehuano. Tercera llamada, en esta espléndida ópera Frida y Diego rondan: sus armas son pinceles. 🌸

Their last dream was the first one they ever had: to be together. Diego lived for ten years in Europe, visited the Soviet Union twice, stayed for three years in the United States, and travelled many more times. Frida visited the U.S. and Paris but liked neither the Americans nor the French. She liked to travel, but she preferred towns, markets, or trips to Pátzcuaro for the Day of the Dead celebrations. Diego's ambition was to paint murals on each one of Rockefeller's, Ford's, and Chrysler's new buildings. He was the second artist that had a retrospective in the Museum of Modern Art in New York, after Matisse. Although his was the more successful career during their lifetimes, Diego's trust is currently maintained with royalties obtained through Frida's enormous popularity.

When Diego and Frida met, she was living in Coyoacán, a little town far from the center of Mexico City. The first time that she left her villa was to go to San Francisco. They arrived in that city on November 13, 1930. At that time, the U.S. was engulfed in the Great Depression and welcomed them with an interesting sentiment: hope. Diego's murals are frequently like opera scenes where the indigenous people represent the sun, that great actor that provides life to all. Some of Frida's self-portraits depict backdrops and her figure is on a proscenium, next to one of her hanged outfits: a tehuana ghost. Throughout this splendid opera, Diego and Frida roam, and their paintbrushes are their weapons. 🌸

CAMARADERIE, TEAMWORK, AND MAGIC

An Interview with Gabriela Lena Frank

BY KIP CRANNA

KARLI CADEL/SAN DIEGO OPERA

Gabriela Lena Frank's first opera, El último sueño de Frida y Diego (The Last Dream of Frida and Diego), with a libretto by Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Nilo Cruz, receives its San Francisco Opera premiere on June 13, 2023, after a highly successful world premiere by co-commissioning company San Diego Opera, last fall. The opera imagines a reunion of the famed Mexican artists Diego Rivera and his deceased wife Frida Kahlo on the traditional Mexican holiday El Día del los Muertos (The Day of the Dead). Kip Cranna caught up with the Berkeley-born composer to discuss her inspiration for the opera and her experiences in bringing it to the stage.

Gabriela Lena Frank / MARIAH TAUGER

KIP CRANNA (KC): You have written about encountering Frida Kahlo's paintings as a child. Where did the notion of an opera about her come up?

GABRIELA LENA FRANK (GLF): It wasn't my idea. This was proposed to me around 2006 by the conductor Joel Revzen, who passed away a few years ago [in 2020]. He said, "You can write the libretto." Thank God, my agents over at Schirmer said, "You're not going to write the libretto. We're going to find you a real writer." I looked at a number of great writers, and Nilo Cruz went—zoom!—right to the top! In addition to the quality of his work, he was a playwright who understood the performance of words on the stage, which is very different from reading them.

His work had just enough of a poetic and lyrical rhythm that I could see it really working with music.

KC: Was the idea of doing the opera in Spanish there from the beginning?

GLF: That was always the thought.

KC: As I'm sure you know, this is the first mainstage piece San Francisco Opera has ever done in Spanish.

GLF: You're not alone. I would venture to say that most American opera companies have not done an opera in Spanish.

KC: Here at San Francisco Opera we have done numerous modern works about real people, like Susan B. Anthony, Richard Nixon, Harvey Milk, Robert Oppenheimer, and—soon to come—Steve Jobs. Did you feel daunted by the responsibility of dealing with real people?

GLF: We didn't think about it as a biography but in many ways that was actually scarier. When you deviate from actual events, it raises the bar to maintain authenticity. Good science fiction writers make up entirely new planets but if they do their job well it's completely authentic. For that reason, I did take very seriously the fact that we were dealing with beloved figures, sometimes controversial for their politics [Diego was an avid Marxist] and their sexuality, and we were also dealing with a beloved spiritual festival, El Día de los Muertos, one of the most iconic Mexican traditions.

Because the project took so long to finally get to the stage, I was able to “get into shape” by doing a myriad of projects during those 15 years. I became composer in residence for major orchestras, and my orchestration was “liberated.” I wrote art songs and other stories which made me a better wordsmith too, as well as giving me a greater understanding of the voice. And Nilo and I grew a relationship. Instead of this opera being our first piece together, it is now our fourteenth! This opera has benefited from that long arc.

KC: Let's talk about the other characters you and Nilo came up with. If I understand correctly, Catrina, the “Keeper of the Dead,” is roughly based on a figure from Aztec tradition.

GLF: She is a composite of multiple spiritual figures that approach a deity-like status. But she's very human, with a cheeky sense of humor. I love the very female tension between Frida and Catrina, which seems very much of this world. I like how Nilo keeps some ambiguity there, as if Catrina has a past. He describes her in the libretto as skeleton-like, with an elegant dress, a flowery hat. Diego actually painted a mural that has a Catrina in it [Dream of a Sunday Afternoon in Alameda Park, 1947]. Our director, Lorena Maza, uses that in the production, as Catrina becomes part of that mural briefly in that same dress.

KC: Does Catrina have her own musical language?

GLF: She really does. At the very first workshop probably the best feedback note I got was that when the two women, Frida and Catrina, were singing you couldn't really tell who was who. I needed to differentiate them. So I went back to the libretto. Nilo's stage directions for Catrina often say, “She laughs.” Sometimes it's very careless laughter, sometimes sardonic, sometimes with delight. I needed to musicalize the laughter. It's very virtuosic, almost coloratura. This is an unknowable, tricky, unpredictable character. She does have power and she's a little dangerous.

KC: Let's talk about the character of Leonardo, the countertenor, who is trying to get back to the living world to perfect his Greta Garbo impersonation.

GLF: Leonardo is an artist, and unlike Frida he retains his connection to artistry even in the Underworld. He's practicing his craft as an actor not just for his own enjoyment but as a device for him to return to the world, since there is a person there who wants to meet Garbo. There's a little humor here as he is reminded that Garbo is still alive [the year is 1957; Garbo died in 1990], but the actor in him doesn't care.

Frida meets Leonardo as an actor and watches him practice his craft. She feels affection for him, and he says, “You should go back. You're an artist. Don't you want to go back and paint again?” And that's the first time her resistance starts to crumble. It's not for love of Diego. It's Leonardo who entices her.

KC: After this fifteen-year gestation period, when El último sueño finally premiered in San Diego last October, what surprised you about it?

GLF: This was my first time in the theater world. I was just drinking in the whole process. My job was not to constrain anybody in terms of the needs of the stage. Even the rehearsal process, watching the director “compose” the direction. I’m used to composing with just me and my piece of paper in my studio. I just loved the camaraderie and the teamwork. It was very magical. I fell for it very hard and quickly, and I would love to do another opera. It’s such a rich world. There’s no other musical medium like it.

KARLI CADEL/SAN DIEGO OPERA

KC: Composers I’ve worked with have often commented that unlike the symphonic world, in opera they sort of lose control of their piece as others take charge of bringing it to life on stage.

GLF: Right, it’s not about control; It’s all about collaboration. You have to have the right kind of temperament. You also have to recognize when a compromise you have made starts to feel uncomfortable. Don’t propose the solutions because other people will come up with those. Pose the problem. It’s an art to learn how to be a good colleague.

KC: There are Bay Area connections for this piece not only for you personally, having been born in Berkeley and raised here in the Bay Area, but also for the subject matter. Frida and Diego lived in San Francisco for a few months in 1930, and after they divorced they remarried here in 1940, and there were major career milestones for them here. Notably Diego painted three major murals here [now at the San Francisco Art Institute, the City Club, and SFMOMA]. Is there any special significance for you now that your opera is being performed here?

GLF: Of course! Diego and Frida have become like friends over the years. As Nilo and I were working on other projects, we would casually remark “Oh, Frida would like this,” as if we knew her personally. I can walk the streets that they walked and see art that Diego made that resides here. I’m so pleased that the first theaters to do this opera are on the West Coast, first San Diego, now San Francisco, and then Los Angeles [November 2023].

KC: You have talked in the past about your background: on one side of the family it’s Lithuanian-Jewish and on the other it’s Peruvian-Chinese. How does this mix of cultural and ethnic backgrounds influence your music?

GLF: I have a great curiosity about my maternal ancestry and finding ways to include the rich repository that is Latin America in my music. At first I was very conscientious about looking at traditions and trying to find a modern way to write some “fill-in-the-blank” indigenous old form—like trying to write a proper sonata form. Young composers often do this, relying on old forms, whether in the Western tradition or not. Then you get more confidence, like that sci-fi writer, building new worlds.

It’s a little like with Frida. She had a German father and a Mexican-born mother. My father was a Jewish man, and my mother was mostly indigenous [Peruvian] but with a strong Chinese contribution—her maiden name was Cantonese, and she heard Chinese spoken in her household. These things are not at odds for me. I feel perfectly whole.

KC: If you could ask Frida something, what would that be?

GLF: I would ask her if she wants to do an opera with me. 🌸

Total Works of Art

BY GENERAL DIRECTOR MATTHEW SHILVOCK

There's a rather imposing word often used in relation to Wagner's operas: Gesamtkunstwerk. It translates as "total work of art" and represents the complete integration of all art forms in one experience. While a philosophical German concept, it serves as a broader encapsulation of the synergy between the arts, manifested so perfectly in opera.

This summer's operas pay homage to the integration of music and art, and the tradition of famous artists finding an outlet on the opera stage, which, in our case, is a 50-foot-wide canvas surrounded by the most ornate, gilded picture frame. It is not surprising that artists feel the urge to 'paint' on so vast a canvas. Artists like Marc Chagall, Salvador Dalí, Maurice Sendak, Jun Kaneko, Anish Kapoor, and Monty Python animator Terry Gilliam have all felt the allure of the proscenium.

This summer, Die Frau ohne Schatten honors maybe the greatest artistic visionary of the opera stage: David Hockney. His expressions of art and music represent extraordinary journeys of light, color, shape, and form, as we've seen in his Turandot, Magic Flute, Tristan und Isolde, and The Rake's Progress. These are intricately undertaken projects, often conceived with an elaborate set model on which Hockney would stage scenes with miniature characters. Hockney once noted "I stay up nights and fiddle with my opera designs. It's a bit obsessive. That's why I can't do it all the time." Jun Kaneko, whose productions of Magic Flute and Madame Butterfly we've had on our stage, went similarly deep, listening to an opera 300 times before even drawing a line.

David Hockney was joined for Die Frau ohne Schatten by costume designer Ian Falconer, who also designed costumes for our Turandot. Ian became even more famous as an illustrator, conceiving the Olivia children's books. He should have been with us this summer but tragically passed away in March aged just 63.

Another costume designer who should have been with us this summer is Kenzō Takada, the Japanese fashion designer and founder of the Parisian fashion house KENZO. He created the costumes for our new co-production of Madame Butterfly. The fusion of fashion and opera has created some extraordinary visuals over the years: think Christian Lacroix's Capuleti e i Montecchi from 2012 or Bob Mackie's 1989 Lulu. For Butterfly, Kenzō reimagined traditional Japanese design, with kimonos that honor the past but push into the future. Kenzō very sadly passed away from Covid in October 2020.

DESIGN BY KENZO TAKADA

Our third work of the summer integrates the world of visual design into the very story of the opera. El último sueño de Frida y Diego is a metaphysical dreamscape in which Diego Rivera reconnects with Frida Kahlo after her death through the medium of painting. Here, music illuminates art in a twist on the other examples of art illuminating music.

The history of opera design is a chronicle of theatrical genius, with theatrical designers creating fantastical worlds out of a simple black box. But there is a particular magic that can happen when an artist comes into our space from outside the theater and explores their aesthetic at our epic scale. This summer we honor all those who design for the stage, particularly Kenzō Takada and Ian Falconer who cannot be with us, and we celebrate the visionary minds who conceive these expressions of total art, inviting us into something larger than life. 🌟
